

Developing Research and Innovation Capacities in Young Universities for Regional Development in Latin America

Event: Smart Specialisation Strategies for Sustainability in Latin America, a place-based innovation approach for development in transition 09/12/2020

A place-based approach to research and innovation in Latin American HEIs

2020

Objective: To strengthen R&I capacities in young Latin American universities through innovative collaboration strategies with local actors to promote regional development.

2023

Mapping HEIs capacities to respond to external priorities and needs.

Identifying strategic R&I projects and mapping funding instruments

Developing knowledge and skills to align R&I initiatives with regional needs and opportunities

Spaces with regional actors to develop a common vision

Leadership engagement to design or adapt policy instruments to support regional collaboration.

